November 2016 Newsletter

Greetings!

I am so pleased by the number of people - 258- who attended our Fall 2016 Conference "Trauma-Informed Care: Moving From Awareness to Action" on October 6th. This joint venture with Joining Forces for Children brought together a variety of professionals to learn more about trauma, trauma-informed care, and strategies to help trauma survivors. The morning keynotes reminded us of two things: 1) survivors of all ages need to have a voice in their care and 2) vicarious trauma needs more attention than it is usually given in order to make sure our helping professionals have the support they need. Thanks to all who joined us for the conference! I feel good knowing that so many people in our community are paying attention to trauma.

TTN Launches Trauma-Responsive Care Certification Program with 2017 TRCC Series

Many professionals seek out certification programs in order to build and demonstrate competency in particular areas. Trauma is one of those areas in which competence is crucial. TTN realizes the importance of providing not just trainings, but consultation in order to ensure that what is learned in a training transfers appropriately to working with consumers. We have partnered with local trauma experts at Finding Hope Consulting, LLC to provide our first type of trauma certification to members. The 2017 Trauma-Responsive Care Certification (TRCC) Series includes 30 hours of training and 12 hours of consultation. Upon completion of the series, professionals take a competency test and apply for certification through the Tristate Trauma Network. The TRCC series runs from January to June 2017. Please visit the Event Landing Page (link below) to see all the requirements and details. Deadline for Registration is December 30, 2016.
